Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I believe the settlement reached in November 2001 between Microsoft and the DOJ is in the very best interests of all concerned parties: the public the government and Microsoft. I strongly urge the DOJ to terminate any further antitrust proceedings against Microsoft. At this time when the economy is in such a downswing it is folly to continue to agitate against a corporation that has given so much to the consumer and in which so many consumers have placed their trust by becoming shareholders. I am of the opinion that Microsoft will take those measures necessary to ensure that action of the type taken against it will not be repeated.
